

1. What are some general patterns you notice about how the fly's height above the midline changes as her angle of rotation changes? What can you say about how her height is changing as she travels?

